

In summer, biologists and volunteers count bats in the evening. They can then see how bat populations are doing from year to year.

Art by Megan Olson